Your Hosted Collection has an associated Google Sheets file, which you'll see at the end of your Hosted Collection's page. The file lists your group's authors and the URLs for their Google Scholar profiles. You should add any missing information and sign up for alerts:

1. Add any missing authors.
2. Add any missing URLs for Google Scholar profiles. If an author does not have one, ask them to make one here.
3. To get alerts to new papers by your authors, go to their respective Google Scholar profiles. On each, click "FOLLOW" → click "New articles by this author" → enter your email address → and click "DONE."¹

Here is an image that shows what is entailed in setting up an alert:

Footnotes

1. An open question is whether we should also set up alerts from other sties, such as ORCID, institutional repositories, personal websites, other disciplinary/field-specific repositories, and academic networking sites. If you have thoughts on this, please share them with Scott. ↵
